

NJAET's 26th Annual Conference

#DigitalMomentum

Saturday, October 26, 2013

8:00 AM - 3:00 PM

Saint Dominic School

250 Old Squan Road

Brick, NJ 08724

NJAET's 26th Annual Conference #DigitalMomentum offers five (5) professional development hours as educators, pre-service teachers and administrators learn new skills and techniques for working with students and technology. A light breakfast and lunch will be provided.

Our keynote this year will be Scott Rocco. Scott is Superintendent of Schools in Spotswood, New Jersey, adjunct professor at The College of New Jersey, instructor in the NJEXCEL program, presenter, and co-founder/co-moderator of #Satchat on Twitter; a weekly global educational conversation. Scott has given keynote, conference and group presentations on the use of social media for educators, school safety, marketing yourself, and various leadership topics. He also blogs on his blog site evolvingeducators.wordpress.com and for edSocialMedia.com. Scott is dedicated to positively and productively engaging educators in a dialogue that improves student learning, enhances instruction, and creates effective learning environments for all who attend and work in schools. Follow Scott on Twitter @ScottRRocco.

Sessions including Web 2.0, Tablets, iPads, Podcasts, Blogs, Wikis, 1 to 1 Initiatives, Student Response Systems, Tech & Assessment (PARCC, etc.), Chrome Books, Common Core & Tech, Tech Gadgets/Tools, Google, Interactive White Boards, Twitter, and Facebook are just some of the topics educators can learn more about. Join us for an exciting day of networking with colleagues from around New Jersey as you enhance your ability to enrich your classroom and school.
